

Amendments to the Abstract of the Disclosure

Please replace the existing Abstract with the following new Abstract.

An assembly arrangement for an air conditioning unit, in particular, for a motor vehicle, includes at least one housing, at least one first device for the exchange of heat, at least one second device for the exchange of heat, at least one inlet for a gaseous medium, at least one outlet for the gaseous medium and at least one flow regulation device. The housing also includes a receiving device for receiving at least one further modular device, such as a modular device for allowing the air conditioning device to condition different numbers of zones.